- Teaching Learning Process:

The Post Graduate Diploma in Management (PGDM) program at the Institute of Management Development and Research (IMDR) is designed to provide a comprehensive and rigorous management education that equips students with the knowledge, skills, and competencies necessary to excel in the dynamic global business environment. Our teaching-learning process is centered around a learner-centric approach, combining theoretical knowledge with practical applications to foster critical thinking, creativity, and independent learning. The key elements of the teaching-learning process include:

1. Choice Based Credit System (CBCS)

The CBCS framework at IMDR organizes the curriculum into core courses, elective courses, and skill-based courses, allowing students to tailor their learning experience according to their personal and professional aspirations.

- Flexibility: Students can select courses from a diverse pool of options, enabling specialization in areas of interest or exploration of interdisciplinary subjects in the second year.
- Credit Accumulation: Each course is assigned specific credits based on workload and learning outcomes. Students accumulate credits to meet graduation requirements.
- Enhanced Learning Experience: CBCS fosters a learner-centric approach, encouraging critical thinking, creativity, and independent learning.

2. Outcome-Based Education (OBE)

The PGDM program at IMDR implements Outcome-Based Education (OBE), focusing on achieving specific learning outcomes and competencies that are aligned with industry requirements.

- Learning Outcomes: The curriculum, teaching, and assessment are aligned with desired educational outcomes, ensuring students are prepared for their future careers.
- Competency Development: Emphasis is placed on the development of skills relevant to the industry, including data analysis, communication, and problem-solving.

3. Integration of National Education Policy (NEP) 2020

IMDR has incorporated the NEP 2020 to ensure that our students are equipped with the skills and knowledge necessary to succeed in the modern business environment.

- Holistic Education: The syllabus promotes a comprehensive understanding of business and management principles, fostering the development of skills, values, and attitudes.
- Multidisciplinary Education: Students are encouraged to explore various fields and develop a deeper understanding of the interconnections between disciplines.

4. Curriculum Design and Structure

The PGDM curriculum is meticulously designed to achieve specific educational objectives that align with IMDR's educational philosophy and mission. The curriculum includes:

- Core Courses: These courses provide a holistic approach to management education, establishing a strong foundation in management knowledge.
- Elective Courses: Students can choose from a wide range of electives, allowing them to specialize in areas such as finance, marketing, human resources, and more.
- Alternative Study Credit Activities: Students can earn academic credits through research projects, independent studies, or participation in extracurricular activities.

5. Experiential Learning

IMDR emphasizes experiential learning to bridge the gap between theory and practice. The program includes:

- Internships and Live Projects: Opportunities for students to apply theoretical knowledge in real-world settings, enhancing critical thinking and decision-making skills.
- Industry Visits and Simulations: Practical experiences that provide students with insights into the functioning of businesses and the application of management concepts.

6. Research and Innovation

Research is a key component of the PGDM program, with students engaging in projects that explore contemporary management issues. Collaboration with faculty and access to cutting-edge resources help students develop analytical and research skills. Credits have been allotted to research output of the students.

7. Global Perspective

IMDR provides a global perspective on management through international case studies, cross-cultural management strategies, and opportunities for international exchange programs, preparing students to operate in a globalized economy.

8. Personalized Learning Experience

The program offers a personalized learning experience through mentorship, academic advising, and career counselling, helping students identify their strengths and set career goals.

9. Collaborative Learning Environment

Collaboration is integral to the learning environment at IMDR. Group projects, discussions, and peer-to-peer learning activities foster teamwork and communication skills, mirroring modern business practices.

By integrating these elements, the PGDM program at IMDR offers a robust and immersive learning experience that prepares students to excel as leaders and innovators in the business world.

- Teaching Load of each Faculty - As per AICTE norms
- Evaluation Mechanism

The evaluation mechanism is a part of direct assessments within the OBE framework adopted as a part of Exam Reforms. This evaluation for a course in a semester is of two types based on the type of course -

1. Continuous Evaluation
2. Term-end Examination

1. Continuous Evaluation

Continuous evaluation of students' performance shall be carried out continuously throughout the semester. This shall be by way of his/ her performance in classroom discussion, case studies, project work, presentations, assignments, quizzes, class tests, on-line tests and any other mode of performance assessments as deemed fit by the faculty, as per the requirements of the subject and students' skill development. Forty percent weightage shall be given to this assessment. Each assessment shall be mapped to Course Outcomes as per the Outcome Based Education System.

2. Term-end Examination

Term-end is the final assessment which a student shall take for every course at the end of a semester. This assessment may be carried out in an online mode or in pen and paper format. The assessment format shall be decided by the Director in consultation with the faculty members and academic committee. The assessment shall be mapped to Course Outcomes as per the Outcome Based Education System. The duration of each examination will be 2 hours and 30 minutes.
